Subject: Comments regarding planning code changes

I have not been able to register with the YourSay discussion regarding this matter and am worried that without comment changes such as those may just pass through quietly without the South Australian community not understanding the implications of such changes. I am concerned about the complexity and implications of these proposed changes to the planning code. Documentation provided is hardly easy for the “average” South Australian to sift through and for those that try them more time is needed to examine these documents to understand them more.

My biggest concern is how these changes aim to “water down” our conservation areas and take the focus away from conservation and allow for economic development to take precedent over conservation. With so little untouched areas left, not just in SA but across Australia and the globe can put government not acknowledge that some areas are worth protecting.
