Housing Diversity Neighbourhood Zone

Dear DPTI planning reform staff, I live in Norma St, Mile End. I believe that an error has been made in the proposed rezoning of the southern side of our street and surrounding area. It is currently zoned as Character Policy Area 23: Residential Zone - Cowandilla / Mile End West but is wrongly and inexplicably proposed to be rezoned as a Housing Diversity Neighbourhood Zone. It should be zoned as Suburban Neighbourhood Zone which better reflects the area's current nature/zoning and is compatible with the proposed zoning of other similar areas of Mile End. So please re-examine this proposed rezoning.

Urban Corridor (Main Street) Zone

Dear DPTI planning reform staff, I live on the northern side of Norma St Mile End. The Urban Corridor (Main Street zone) on our side of Henley Beach Rd has been extended to include the whole block between Henley Beach Rd and Norma St thereby putting numerous nineteenth and early twentieth century domestic houses at risk. While we were expecting development along Henley Beach Rd itself and have always happily co-existed with this, the new zone allows major development on what is essentially a suburban street (namely Norma St, especially in the blocks further from South Rd between Falcon Ave and Bagot Ave). This is causing huge distress to long-established residents in a street that has always had a strong sense of community and where people enjoy living together. The Urban Corridor (Main Street) Zone on the other side of Henley Beach Rd does not extend so far back into a clearly residential area and I would ask you to similarly consider confining the zone on the southern side of Henley Beach Rd so that it merely contains the existing buildings and their associated car parks along Henley Beach Rd. That would give more than sufficient space for the building of good quality, affordable apartments without causing major disruption to existing residents. Furthermore, as the demographics show, many longstanding Mile End residents are elderly or on relatively low incomes and risk being severely disadvantaged by this change in zoning.

Dear DPTI planners, I am very experienced at using computers, web-based forms and at reading government documents but actually found this quite hard to use. I am also concerned about privacy and identity theft issues if people's names, addresses and email addresses are to be published on your website as the warning at the beginning of this form suggests will be the case. This may also have discouraged some from filling in the form. After the debacle with mass land titles records being downloaded, I would have liked some reassurance that privacy and information security issues were being given proper consideration.
