As a resident in the Black Forest area for 30 plus years, the ongoing charm and character is what brought us here initially and has encouraged us to stay.

The proposed new planning and design code changes do seem to want to decimate the current look, appeal and charm of Black Forest and Clarence Park suburbs particularly pinpointed to give rise to these changes, this doesn't make good sense, why these two suburbs.??

The suggestion of changing the criteria of the frontage of dwellings to be much closer to the curbside, with garages being front of houses, additional cars, more on street parking, more people, giving a very crowded feel and would detract from the very pleasant street scape as we currently do enjoy.

Let alone putting additional pressure on existing roads, schools, shopping centres and the community in general as there isn't the infrastructure to sustain this type of agenda.

A concerned Black Forest resident.
